

President's Message

Enjoy and Contribute to The Federal Lawyer

I hope that you enjoy reading The Federal Lawyer every month. This is one of the great benefits of belonging to the Federal Bar Association. I appreciate the editorial boards, past and present, as well as the FBA staff that do such a wonderful job in publishing the magazine. Thank you.

The Federal Lawyer provides insightful articles on specialized federal areas of legal practice, including intellectual property, criminal, maritime, veteran, and Indian law, to name a few. So whether the featured area of law spotlighted in the issue is in your practice specialty or not, you have the opportunity to learn something new in the law.

The Federal Lawyer will update you in the Washington Watch column of the magazine as our counsel for government relations, Bruce Moyer, provides monthly insight into the happenings on the Hill and within the Beltway as federal legal issues percolate and occur.

Judicial profiles published monthly in The Federal Lawyer will introduce you to members of our federal judiciary and their life stories as their backgrounds and rise to legal prominence are told. Also, The Federal Lawyer's section on book reviews provides reviews of many publications that pertain to the law and its practice.

Finally, The Federal Lawyer shares stories of events that occur in our legal communities across the country—especially our FBA Member News section, which highlights activities hosted by our chapters, sections, divisions, and other FBA-related events.

I encourage you to not only enjoy The Federal Lawyer and its content, but I urge you to be a contributor to the magazine by submitting legal content that other members would appreciate reading. ☺
