AGENDA

IRS Practice and Procedure Hot Topics

Jeremiah Coder, Associate, Greenberg Traurig, LLP

Jeremiah Coder is an Associate at Greenberg Traurig, LLP, where he focuses his practice on privilege issues, penalties, Circular 230, whistleblowers, and in-depth tax research and policy analysis. He represents clients in federal tax controversies before the IRS and is experienced in preparing and examining federal and state tax returns for partnerships, trusts, estates and individuals. He will give us an overview of recent hot topics in the IRS tax practice and procedure arena, such as updates to the IRS pre-filing agreement program the issuance of final regulations under section 6708, and proposed regulations that would impose disclosure obligations on domestic disregarded entities wholly owned by foreign persons.

Next Call: Monday, June 27, 2016 at 1:00 p.m.

Volunteers interested in leading a discussion or making a presentation at this or any future meeting are encouraged to contact Matthew Cooper (Matthew.Cooper@ey.com) or Lisandra Ortiz (lortiz@milchev.com).
