Program Description

The program brings together an all-star faculty of private lawyers, general counsel, compliance and regulatory affairs professionals, medical device executives and key regulators to discuss the latest topics and issues affecting the medical device industry.

The agenda includes sessions on:

- Overview of medical device law
- Recently issued FDA guidances
- Regulation of novel technologies
- HIPAA, privacy and cyber-security
- Financing medical device innovation
- Effective compliance programs
- Managing False Claims Act and FCPA liability

This program will particularly focus on the security of medical devices in light of their continued expansion into the broader consumer health market.

This is a must program for those who want to interact with medical device executives; those responsible for managing compliance programs; or those who wish to increase their competency in effectively managing medical device regulatory risk. The program will satisfy the interests of those newly involved in the medical device industry and industry veterans. This program will assist medical device professionals to better face the many significant threats of today and tomorrow.

Here's What Your Colleagues Had to Say About the 2014 Institute:

“Great program!”

“Loved the format and “real-world” approach on day two.”

“Good content and informative speakers ... Looking forward to next year!”

ABA CLE National Institutes bring you face-to-face with nationally recognized experts on substantive topics — often while fulfilling most of your annual CLE requirements.
